MEMORANDUM FOR: Lt. General Edward J. Heinz, USAF
Director, Intelligence Community Staff

FROM: Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT: Norfolk Visit

STAT

Many thanks for your part in setting up a first-class briefing session at Norfolk. It was both interesting and illuminating, and I hope there will be opportunities for other such visits in the future.

WtW.

Captain Robert T. Trafton, U. S. Navy
Commanding Officer
Navy and Marine Corps Intelligence Training Center
Building 420, Dam Neck
Virginia Beach, Virginia 93461-5575

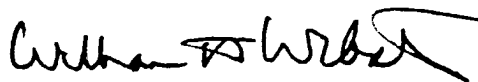

Dear Captain Trafton:

In a relatively short period of time, you provided me with an enormously illuminating and interesting overview of the Training Center. I have long considered the quality of training to be the key to the future of our mission, and I was delighted to see that you have put both punch and quality into the Navy/Marine Corps program.

After a long day of briefings in other Norfolk facilities, I was particularly pleased that you gave me an opportunity to visit with the men and women actually undergoing training. I was impressed by their grasp of the issues and the quality of the trainees, and I thoroughly enjoyed my visit.

Many thanks and all the best,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster

Captain Hugh D. Wisely, U. S. Navy
Commanding Officer
USS JOHN F. KENNEDY (CV-67)
Norfolk, Virginia 23511-5100

Dear Captain Wisely:

Both of my visits to the KENNEDY have been extremely interesting and informative. My first visit was during the Statue of Liberty celebration in New York City, and my focus was on counterterrorist preparations. With my visit at Norfolk, I gained a much greater understanding of the tremendously important role played by the KENNEDY in intelligence collection. I had not realized before how many men and how much equipment have been dedicated to the important assignments that aid the entire Intelligence Community. It was a very interesting briefing, and I appreciate all the time that you were able to spend with me. I thoroughly enjoyed it and I am most grateful.

With warm best wishes to you, your officers and men,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster

Commander James W. Metzger, U. S. Navy
Commanding Officer
USS MINNEAPOLIS-SAINT PAUL (SSN-708)
Norfolk, Virginia 23511-5100

Dear Skipper:

My first visit aboard a nuclear submarine was a memorable one. I was particularly impressed by your own grasp of the importance of intelligence collection and dissemination and by the significant contribution that the SSN-708 and sister boats play in our overall collection effort.

Thank you for taking time from a busy day to give me such an informative briefing. I thoroughly enjoyed it.

With warm best wishes and many thanks to you and your entire crew,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster

Admiral Frank B. Kelso II, U. S. Navy
Commander in Chief
U. S. Atlantic Fleet
Norfolk, Virginia 23511-5100

Dear Admiral Kelso:

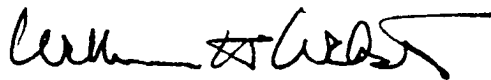

Many thanks for hosting such a pleasant lunch during my visit to Norfolk. I saw Admiral Baggett here in Washington earlier this week and told him how much I enjoyed the visit and how helpful everyone had been to me.

Your officers gave me an excellent view of the usages of tactical intelligence as well as the collection of strategic intelligence, and I came away enormously impressed at how well this is done under often the most difficult of circumstances. I particularly enjoyed the opportunity to see the training going on at Dam Neck.

Many thanks to you and to those under your command who provided such a well coordinated and informative briefing for me.

With warm best wishes,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster

Captain David J. McMunn, U. S. Navy
Director Fleet Intelligence
U. S. Atlantic Fleet
Norfolk, Virginia 23511-5100

Dear Captain McMunn:

The handsome coaster which you gave me as we left Norfolk sits on my desk as a permanent reminder of a most interesting and helpful visit. The arrangements could not have been better made or more effectively carried out. I came away with an enhanced appreciation of the needs of military intelligence and all that you are doing to contribute to the Intelligence Community as a whole.

Many thanks for a very pleasant day.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Vice Admiral Daniel L. Cooper, U. S. Navy
Commander Submarine Force
U. S. Atlantic Fleet
Norfolk, Virginia 23511-5100

Dear Admiral Cooper:

Many thanks for providing such an interesting visit to the MINNEAPOLIS-SAINT PAUL. I think sometimes those of us in the Intelligence Community overlook the difficult and challenging circumstances under which intelligence is collected by those at sea. Commander Metzger certainly added to my understanding in a tight schedule and in tight space. My admiration is unbounded.

With warm best wishes,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster

Rear Admiral Thomas R. Brooks, U. S. Navy
Director-designate of Naval Intelligence
Department of the Navy
Washington, D. C. 20350-2000

Dear Tom:

Many thanks for spending the day with me at Norfolk. It was an extraordinarily interesting and informative visit and the arrangements could not have been better planned or more pleasant. I know that this is a particularly busy time for you as you move to your new assignment, and I am all the more appreciative that you were willing to give over the day to my education and understanding of the naval intelligence mission.

With best wishes and many thanks again,

Sincerely,

William H. Webster
